Between 2 and 13 May 1953, the following observations were made at Peenemuende airfield:
2 to 6 May. There was no air activity.

7 May. At 5:15 p.m., one twin-engine transport plane landed at the field.

8 May. At 7 a.m., 14 jet fighters were observed on the runway. At 9 a.m., jet fighters took off in elements of two and made local flights. The weather was stormy, however visibility was good. Between 5 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., one single-engine fighter circled the field three times.

9 May. At 5:30 p.m., one single-engine fighter coming from the east landed at the field. There was a strong wind.

10 May. There was no air activity. Visibility was good.

11 May. At 5:10 p.m. and 7:35 p.m., a single-engine fighter and a twin-engine transport respectively, both coming from an easterly direction, landed at the field. The weather was dull and there was no wind.

12 May. No air activity was observed. The weather was rainy. A twin-engine transport was parked on the landing field.

13 May. About noon, two groups of two jet fighters made local flights. There was fair weather.
